ESPP 2017 Doctoral Recruiting Fellowships

The Environmental Science and Policy Program (ESPP) is now accepting applications to the Doctoral Recruiting Fellowships for students who have been accepted into a Michigan State University doctoral program for Fall 2017.

The Fellowship Package includes:
- Full tuition for two semesters
- Health insurance
- About $25,000 in living expenses

Fellowships are available for the 2016-2017 academic year. Students who are selected will complete the ESPP Doctoral Specialization (up to four interdisciplinary course requirements and a research presentation) in addition to their departmental coursework.

Students MUST be nominated by their intended home departments: they may not apply directly for these fellowships but must work with their intended home departments to be nominated.

Nominations are due Feb. 1, 2017

ELIGIBILITY: The intent of the fellowships is to recruit new doctoral students to MSU, so only new students (matriculating in fall 2017) are eligible. Students must apply to and be accepted by a doctoral program at MSU to be considered for these fellowships. Recipients of these fellowships MUST participate in the ESPP Doctoral Specialization. This includes successfully completing the four requirements outlined as a part of the specialization. Normally, courses are taken within the first two years of a student’s Ph.D. program. International students are eligible for these fellowship.
